

roll over valve

Posted by novals - 08 Jun 2013 06:38

after many years of drag racing and tech inspections,I have often wondered why roll over valves are not mandatory for cars with fuel cells,it just seems like common sense. What does it take to make it happen? Also the new track is awesome and thanks for being their,only place I know that allows me to escape the stupidity that's going on in the world.Keep up the good work
