Hey Jeff,

Not sure who to mention it to so I'll reply here as a start.

The Twitter feed on the main ESTA page is gone, so someone going to just the homepage looking for a cancellation on Sunday didn't see anything. I know of at least one person who checked the main page and drove to the track to find it closed.

Did the Twitter feed disappear on purpose or is it a website glitch?

I have no clue. Everyone SHOULD be going to this forum for the most up to date information, though.

This is updated the most often.

I understand what you're saying and I think that's what most of our regulars do, but people who don't come here often won't know to go to the forum to find cancellation info. Most tracks don't even have a forum.
